| M | متن زیر را با دقت بخوانید و به سوالات داده شده پاسخ دهید. A strong memory depends on a healthy brain. There are many things you can do to improve your memory and mental performance. When you exercise the body, you exercise the brain. Physical exercises increase oxygen flow to your brain and reduce the risk for health problems that could lead to memory loss. Exercise may also enhance the release of healthy chemicals that protect brain cells: Having enough sleep is important for memory. When you cannot get enough sleep, your brain is not able to operate at full capacity. Creativity, problem – solving, and critical thinking will decrease. Whether you’re studying, working, or trying to juggle life’s many demands, getting too little sleep is a recipe for disaster. Sleep is important to learning and to memory in an even more important way. Research shows that sleep is necessary for maintaining memory, with key memory, enhancing activity occurring during the deepest stages of sleep. Healthy relationships: the ultimate memory booster? Relationships stimulate the brain. In fact, interacting with others may be the best kind of brain exercise. Research shows that having meaningful relationships and a strong support system are essential not only to emotional health, but also to brain health. In one recent study from the Harvard School of Public Health, researchers found that people with the most active social lives had the slowest rate of memory decline. Volunteering, joining a club, or spending time with friends more often, are effective ways to increase memory. 51. Why is exercise important for helping memory? 52. Is the following strategy, to increase memory, recommended in this passage? “Find a quiet place to meditate and think in silence.” 53. What are some problems of not having enough sleep? 54. Having dinner with a friend can help memory. a) True b) False 55. When you cannot get enough sleep, your brain is able to operate at full capacity. a) True b) False | 4 |
| N | متن زیر را با دقت بخوانید و به سوالات داده شده پاسخ دهید. A newborn baby can see, hear and feel. By the age of five, a child can talk and ride a bike. How does this development happen? We don’t really understand the way language and thinking develop in the brain. Now scientists are using new technology to help them in their studies. They are discovering new information about the way a baby’s brain develops. A study in 2010 showed that the experiences a child has in their first few years are important. These experiences affect the development of the brain. The study showed when children receive more attention, they often have higher IQs. Babies receive information when they see, hear and feel things. This information makes connections between different parts of the brain. There are a hundred trillion connections in the brain of a three-year-old child. | 4 |

| | Questions | Points |
|----------|---|----------|
| | One experiment studied how newborn babies' brains react to different sounds. The sounds were in different patterns. For example, the sounds mu-ba-ba make the pattern 'A-B-B'. And the sounds mu-ba-ge make the pattern 'A-B-C'. The results of the study showed that babies know the two patterns are different. Patterns are important in language. The order of words is important to grammar and meaning. For example, 'John killed the bear' doesn't mean the same as 'The bear killed John'. Both sentences have the same words, but they are in a different order. The experiment shows that babies start to learn grammar rules from the beginning of their life. Language is important for child development. Babies can hear language in various ways: listening to television, audio books or the Internet and interacting with people. A scientist, Patricia Kuhl, compared two groups of nine-month-old American babies. Both groups heard Mandarin Chinese sounds. The first group watched videos. In the second group, people spoke the same sounds to the babies. Then they tested the babies. The second group recognized the different sounds. The first group learned nothing. Patricia Kuhl said this result was very surprising. It shows that social interaction is important to successful brain development in babies. 56. What is the main purpose of the passage? a) Comparing the brains of adults and children. b) Explaining how human brain works. c) Describing studies about brain development in babies. d) Showing how babies in the research were intelligent. 57. According to the article, which statement is TRUE? a) Different languages influence the brain in different ways. b) Interactive experiences are important in brain development. c) Babies can learn Mandarin Chinese easily. d) Babies receive information just when they feel things. 58. According to the second paragraph, what makes new connections in the brain? a) experiencing new information b) having a high IQ c) the child's age d) hearing sounds 59. The experiment in paragraph 3 used sound patterns because a) sounds make different patterns. b) different languages have different grammar. c) words have different sounds. d) word order is part of grammar. | |
